Britney Spears speaks out against 'abusive' conservatorship in court

US pop star Britney Spears has launched a blistering attack on the "abusive" conservatorship that has controlled her life for 13 years.

SHE SAID she was traumatised and cried every day, telling a judge in Los Angeles: "I just want my life back". Spears who is now 39, also said she had been denied the right to have more children and was put on the psychiatric drug lithium against her wishes. Her father was granted control over her affairs by court order in 2008. The order was granted after the star was put in hospital amid concerns over her mental health, and it has been extended for more than a decade since. The special hearing recently was the first time Spears has spoken in open court about her case. Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Brenda Penny thanked Spears for her "courageous" words during the proceedings. It followed much speculation about the pop star's situation, with fans eagerly combing her social media output for clues. A fan-led movement, known as #FreeBritney, has campaigned for her legal freedom for years. Spears delivered an impassioned address which lasted for more than 20 minutes. She also added that she wished she could stay on the phone "forever" to avoid returning to her life where she was surrounded by people who said no to her. Spears told the court she wanted the conservatorship to end and described the arrangement as "embarrassing and humiliating". ■

Quentin Tarantino to retire after his next film

Acclaimed Hollywood filmmaker Quentin Tarantino has reiterated his desire to retire from Hollywood after his next film.

THE ACE director was talking to host Bill Maher on his HBO talk show Real Time with Bill Maher when he said he wants to take off now. Tarantino, whose novelisation of his last film Once Upon a Time in Hollywood releases on June 29, also revealed that he briefly considered directing a reboot of Reservoir Dogs but ended up rejecting the idea. He told Maher, "I don't have a reason that I would want to say out loud...that's going to win any argument in a court of public opinion or Supreme Court or anything like that. At the same time, working for 30 years, doing as many films as I've done — it's not as many as other people, but like, that's a long career. That's a really long career. And I've given it everything I have, every single solitary thing I have." He added, "I know film history and from here on in, filmmakers do not get better," implying that he wants to go out on a high. The Oscar-winner went on to bring up the example of late filmmaker Don Siegel to illustrate his point. "If he had quit his career in 1979, when he did Escape from Alcatraz... what a final film! What a mic drop. But he, like, dribbles away with two more other ones. He doesn't mean it," Tarantino tried to explain. ■

DIOR ON THE RAMP AFTER PANDEMIC

The French couture house kicked off Paris fashion week with in-person runway show drawing celebrities to the front-row

FRENCH COUTURE house Christian Dior kicked off Paris fashion week with an in-person runway show drawing celebrities to the front-row in an attempt to revive a touch of pre-pandemic glamour. Actors Jessica Chastain, Cara Delevingne, Monica Bellucci and Florence Pugh were among the limited crowd who lined the catwalk at Dior's Fall/Winter 2021-2022 haute couture collection. Designer Maria Grazia Chiuri told the reporters that she wanted fabrics to be front and centre. An audience in the room could appreciate the detail and the tactile nature of the fabric in a way that does not come across online or in video footage. Tweed ensembles, from jackets to hats resembling horse riding helmets, took the stage in a patchwork of muted tones. Models showed vegetal prints on a velvet and satin coat. For evening looks, there were long skirts embroidered with feathers and sheer pleated long dresses in silk gauze. With vaccinations progressing and lockdowns loosening, fashion is tiptoeing its way back to traditional catwalk shows, for now mixing live audiences and online presentation. "We are all very emotional," said Chiuri. "There are so many people that work on the collection. We were happy to realise beautiful films but it was just a little bit impersonal. [Everyone] is really proud to see the show, be backstage, live the moment with our clients, the press, our friends. In one year and a half, we lost a lot of these human contacts," she said. LVMH (LVMH.PA)-owned Dior staged the show in the gardens of Paris' Rodin museum inside a temporary structure covered with embroidery designed by the French artist Eva Jospin and made by Indian craftswomen. ■

First-ever transgender school opens in Multan

THE PROVINCIAL education minister vowed that schools for the transgender community will be opened in all districts of Punjab. "One step at a time. Education for ALL," he added. The school is now opened in Multan and celebs are lauding the government's efforts. "This is such a positive development," shared Tera Mukhra crooner Shehzad Roy. "I hope I live to see the day when transgenders get the right to choose which school they want to go to boys, girls, co-ed or separate transgender schools." Ahsan Khan, too, praised the initiative. "The most vulnerable section of society being given the basic human rights, heartwarming indeed," he wrote. Raas' tweet was in response to a story by a local publication on an announcement made by the minister while addressing a ceremony held regarding Insaf Afternoon School Programme (IASP) at a hotel in Lahore. The minister, at the event, said that the government decided not to enroll members of the transgender community in regular schools because of some reservations regarding the behaviour of other students. Raas noted that the attitude of students from regular schools could be insulting towards the transgender community, which is why separate schools were being set up for them.

Punjab Education Minister Murad Raas announced that the provincial government will open up the first-ever transgender school in Pakistan, in the city of Multan. "We are opening the first-ever transgender school in Pakistan. Why would we deny education to anyone in our country? Our first school is opening in Multan," tweeted the minister.

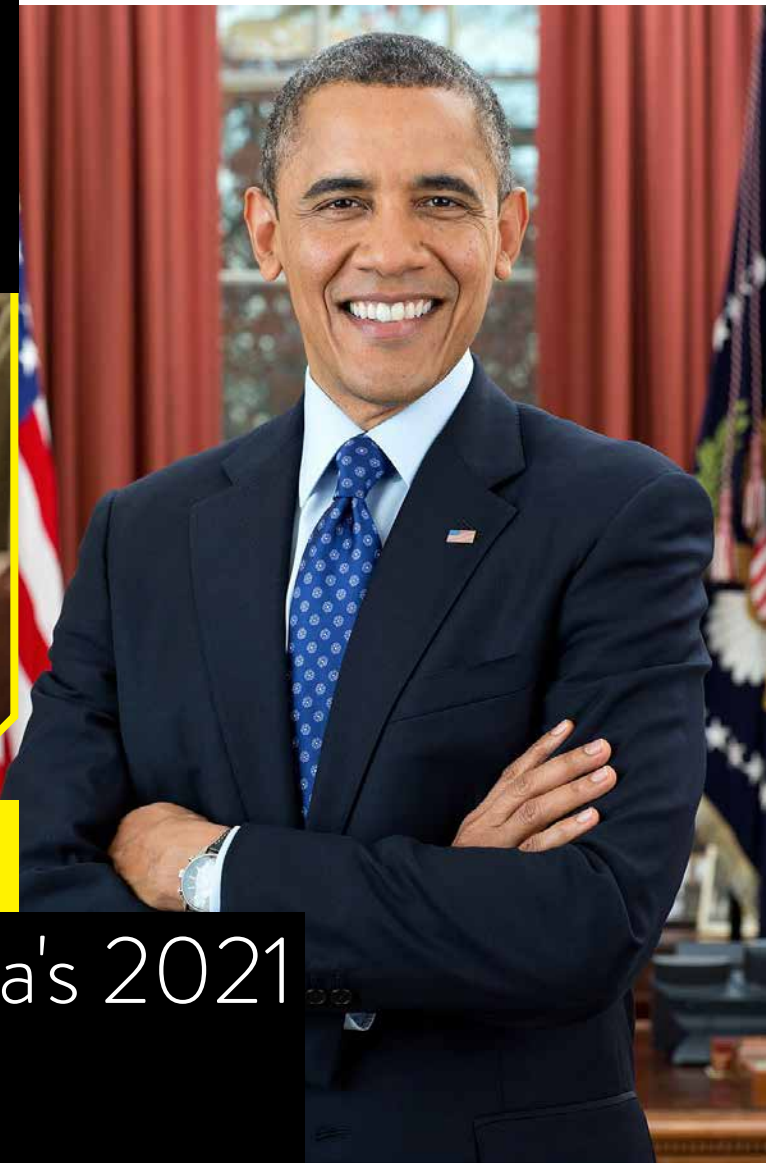

He said it was unfortunate that no government except for the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) thought about the welfare and provision of education and jobs to the transgender community. The minister said registration for the schools is in progress and will be completed by July 15. ■

Meghan set to create animated Netflix series for girls

Britain's Duchess Meghan Markle has created an animated family series for streaming platform Netflix Inc that she will also executive produce.

ARCHEWELL Productions, the company formed by Meghan and her husband, Prince Harry, said in a statement the series would be centred on the adventures of a 12-year-old girl, who is inspired by a variety of influential women from history. The series, called Pearl, is one of the first to be announced by Netflix and the British couple, formally known as the Duke and Duchess of Sussex. They struck the deal last year after they quit their royal duties and moved to California.

"Like many girls her age, our heroine Pearl is on a journey of self-discovery as she tries to overcome life's daily challenges," Meghan said in a statement.

Meghan will executive produce the series along with David Furnish, the husband of British singer Elton John, the statement said. John is a close friend of Harry and Meghan and performed at their wedding reception in 2018.

The animated series follows the announcement last year of a Netflix project that is close to Harry's heart – a documentary series about the Invictus Games for wounded servicemen and women.

It follows the publication last month of Meghan's first book – The Bench – a children's story about fatherhood that she said was inspired by Harry's relationship with the couple's first child, Archie. Meghan gave birth to a daughter, Lilibet "Lili" Diana, in June.

Last year, the couple's first-ever Netflix production was announced. Harry will produce a documentary about the Invictus Games for disabled military veterans. Harry, who served with the British military in Afghanistan, will appear on camera and executive-produce Heart of Invictus, a multi-episode series that follows competitors as they train for next spring's competition in The Hague.

Abdul Razzak tried to corner Nida Dar with sexist comments

A recent interview of former international cricketer Abdul Razaq is doing rounds on social media and we are highly disappointed!

RAZZAQ SAT down with Nida Dar of Pakistan's women's cricket team, in June for a tete-a-tete in a talk show hosted by Nouman Ijaz, excerpts of which conversation have triggered a debate online.

The three, among other members of the show, talked about women in sports when Razaq casually made sexist remarks over Dar's appearance and future in the sport. When the Raqeeb Se star inquired what Dar would have chosen as a career, had it not been cricket, she shared she still would have opted to be a professional athlete.

To this, Honey Albela laughed and joked, "Do you have some kind of allergy with marriage? You don't want to talk about it at all." Wafa Butt, another host of the show then questioned how many sports academies are available for women in the country?

"I know there are few at the college level," Ijaz responded. Dar added, "If some colleges and schools have space, then they do try and incorporate cricket in their extracurricular activities. Girls from rural areas and villages move to the city to play cricket, in hopes to pursue this as a profession."

Butt intervened and asserted, "And then they leave when they get married."

Dar then commented, "They try to play the sport as much as they can since you never know after the wedding."

"Oh, they don't get married," Razaq quipped. "Their field is as such. When they become cricketers, they strive to be as equal as their male counterparts, if not better than them. They want to prove that not only men, but they can also do it as well. The feeling [to get married] is gone by the time they excel." He further added by saying, "If you shake her [Dar] hand, she is anything but feminine."

Dar decided to respond to Razaq and shared, "Our profession is such that we have to go to gym. We have to bat, bowl and field. Hence, we have to stay fit." Cutting Dar off, Razaq added, "You can tell by the haircut she has." While others continued to laugh at the so-called jest, Butt questioned, "I had this query for a while. Can you not play cricket with longer hair?"

"You absolutely can play with long hair," Dar answered. "But for someone who has kept her hair long, it would affect her game." Ijaz then remarked, "There are certain requirements when it comes to sports. Why can't one play

Anam Nadeem
@anamnadeem
not even a surprise. if Razaq can casually say all of this on tv, imagine what women athletes have to go through on a daily basis in this country just to follow their passion

Maheen Usmani
@MaheenUsmani
Replying to @emclub77
@ARazaqPak reduces female cricketers to marriage candidates while host Noman Ejaz keeps asking why do u not wear a 3 piece suit while playing cricket. Instead of honouring female professionals, these 'men' would rather humiliate them. Shows their upbringing with a three-piece suit? You have to abide by the need of the sport."

The clip that went viral recently irked many with Razaq being called out for his sexist comments.

In a country where women playing sports is still considered taboo, sexist comments from renowned sportsmen are extremely disappointing. As the world moves towards inclusivity, this interview sure was in a bad taste. Kudos to Dar for staying composed and calm throughout! And as for Abdul Razzak - learn to respect women. ■

'THE CROWN' LEADS EMMY NOMINATIONS WITH 24 NODS

The Crown and The Mandalorian led nominations for the Emmy Awards in a diverse field packed with newcomers and feel-good TV shows that reflected the surge in streaming during the coronavirus pandemic.

HBO AND its new HBO Max streaming platform led all networks with 130 nominations, followed by Netflix Inc with 129. The Apple TV+ streaming service scored 35 nods - its best-ever showing - mostly for the heartwarming comedy Ted Lasso.

Best drama series contenders include Netflix's British royal series The Crown for a season that focused on the early years of the disastrous marriage of Prince Charles and Princess Diana.

The Crown nabbed a leading 24 nods, including nine for actors such as Josh O'Connor and newcomer Emma Corrin as the royal newlyweds and Olivia Colman as a middle-aged Queen Elizabeth.

"We are all pinching ourselves that after four series, The Crown is still being embraced and enjoyed in this way," creator Peter Morgan said in a statement.

Framing Britney Spears, a documentary that sparked new interest in the pop star's conservatorship, and Oprah Winfrey's explosive interview with Prince Harry and his wife Meghan both scored nominations for television's highest honours.

The New York Times and Walt Disney Co's FX network released Framing Britney Spears in February. It was Emmy-nominated for best documentary and for best picture editing for a nonfiction program.

The 74-minute documentary examined the singer's meteoric rise to fame as a teenager, the ensuing media scrutiny and her widely publicized breakdown, as well as her life under the conservatorship and a fan movement known as #FreeBritney. The Baby One More Time singer has lived under a conservatorship overseen by her father since 2008, when she was hospitalised for psychiatric treatment. Last month, she told a Los Angeles court that the arrangement was abusive and she wanted it to end.

Winfrey's two-hour sit-down with Harry and Meghan in March sent shockwaves through the British monarchy when Meghan accused Britain's royal family of raising concerns about how dark their son's skin might be and of pushing her to the brink of suicide.

It aired on CBS and got an Emmy nomination in the best-hosted nonfiction series or special category.

In the best documentary series category, contenders include HBO's Allen v Farrow, which explored the allegation that film director Woody Allen sexually assaulted his daughter Dylan Farrow in 1992. Allen has repeatedly denied the allegations and called the series a "hatchet job."

The Emmy winners will be announced at a live televised ceremony in Los Angeles on Sept 19. ■

'TRAGEDY KING' - DILIP KUMAR

The legendary actor's family friend Faisal Farooqui announced on his Twitter, "With a heavy heart and profound grief, I announce the passing away of our beloved Dilip Saab, few minutes ago. We are from God and to Him we return."

IT IS INDEED a sad day for cinema in India and Pakistan as everyone mourns the passing of one of the last surviving stars of the Hindi film industry's 'Golden Age', which lasted from 1940 to 1960. Mohammed Yusuf Khan, known professionally as Dilip Kumar, was suffering from age-related health complications. He was 98-years-old. Popularly known as the 'Tragedy King' of Bollywood, Kumar was a remarkable method actor who could not be confined to genres.

A legend par excellence, Kumar had proved his mettle in comedies, dramas, romance among others, in a career spanning over five decades. Now, actors, film personalities and even politicians from both India and Pakistan are taking to social media to honour his legacy and offer their condolences to his bereaved family. ■

Grazia: Is there ever a time you feel you need more privacy in terms of your life when it comes to being so famous on the social media? With so many followers, constantly watching everything.

Diipa: Social media as a profession has its advantages and disadvantages just as any other occupation. When I began my journey on social media, I wouldn't have ever dreamed of being where I am today, having the platform and opportunities I am blessed with. I always try to be transparent with my audience, giving them insight into my life where I feel is appropriate. I consider my audience an 'Insta family', thus feel no pressure or guilt to share or to keep things private. There are boundaries when it comes to my personal life, however I am always excited to share news with my followers.

Diipa: Needless to say, my daily life has taken a turn since I've become a mom! However, my usual routine has started to make its way back to its course. My days consist of the usual meetings for exciting upcoming projects as a lot of my time goes into planning and scheduling content; I have the occasional photoshoot for either my own content or a project I'm working on. I've gradually started gyming again where my body allows. As my day winds down, I take the time to relax with either a stroll with Dua and Oleg, or simply relaxing at home with the family.

Grazia: How did you and your husband meet? Tell us about your life together and your love story.

Diipa: Like a typical-romance movie, we met at university - University College Utrecht to be specific, where I had just started my first year, and Oleg was already in his final year. Being the student body president, he was set to show me around and get me settled into the university on my first day. I can't say that we made the best first impressions of each other, however they were strong enough for us to remember one another a few years down the lane. Five years into the future, we found each other via social media, where he reached out to me and asked me out on a date. During our first encounter, I already believed we had a bit of a spark, regardless of the attitude I gave! However, five years later, when we went on our first date, that was when I think he and I both knew we were made for each other, finally getting to know and appreciating each other's values and character in its truth. Now married for 4 years, I know I made the right decision in my partner.

I realize this as each day goes by. We consider ourselves a dynamic team that always lifts each other up through both good and difficult times.

Grazia: Who named Dua? And how has life changed after she arrived? How is motherhood treating you?

Diipa: While brainstorming, we were throwing names out in the open when we both heard Dua, we knew it was the one, for both its beauty and meaning. Despite the changes a woman must experience when becoming a mother, motherhood has been a bliss so far, it's still surreal to me that we have been blessed with such a beautiful soul as a daughter, a feeling that's truly incredible. Dua for one is easy going most of the time, a true trooper when coming along on our daily escapades! Yes, there are sleepless nights or times where my patience is tested, but nothing would ever beat the joy that your very own child brings you every day.

Grazia: How do you end up balancing work and family life now after the arrival of Dua? Any tips for new moms? or moms-to-be?

Diipa: One of the perks of my job is being able to be in a comfortable environment most of the time, whether it be our office, home setting or travelling, our Dua tags along with us, which is comforting to know we don't have to be apart. As much as your job is important, precious moments with your family are irreplaceable, so finding that balance is key. After Dua's arrival, I have managed to dedicate more time to my family and I find myself truly appreciating every second of it. Advice for new moms or moms-to-be: It's okay to not know what you're doing yet! You will figure it out eventually. Motherhood isn't something you can study and get degree in, it's something you naturally develop over time and experience. So, give yourself a break if you hit a dead-end somewhere along the lane, you will overcome this just as every other obstacle you've managed to beat. Another important thing to remember is to show your body some love and not expect it to 'bounce back' after giving birth! Your body has been through so many unfamiliar changes, it deserves all the respect and love for keeping both you and your baby safe!

Grazia: Describe yourself in 3 words. Who really is Diipa Khosla?
Diipa: Family-orientated. Ambitious. Activist.

Grazia: With so many aspiring influencers now, what is the one advice you'd like to give to them?
Diipa: Genuine advice I'd offer to any individual that has the ambition to be a content creator is to stay true to yourself and to the content you're passionate about creating. The world is literally your oyster, there are so many branches of creativity that you're able to spring from, find something that truly inspires you to inspire others and go with it. Don't lose yourself in the number of likes you receive or the following count on the top of your page, focus on the message you want to share and do it with your head up high, avoid getting lost in trends that aren't representative of who you are. What I can say to any up-and-coming content creator, is that it takes dedication and consistency to grow a platform, if you have the right message and right focus, you can't go wrong with a drive and passion!

Grazia: Describe your all-time favourite fashion style
Diipa: My all-time favourite fashion style would be mixing casual-elegance with a hint of a mysterious chic! The colour red is something that always draws my eye, including it in an outfit automatically makes me feel more confident. Something to add that I absolutely adore is the 90's comeback!

Grazia: One fashion trend you do not like and one trend that you absolutely Love
Diipa: A trend that I'm not the biggest fan of would be mixing

Dress: Isabel Marant
Earrings: YSL
Boots: Elisabetta Franchi

different patterns. Don't get me wrong, I'm all there for loud colours and patterns, however mixing one's that don't match is no-go in my books. A trend that I've found myself loving lately is 'Subversive basic', a brand that presents basics but with really interesting cuts and patterns to elevate a casual outfit!

Grazia: Could you share your beauty skin care routine? Your skin is flawless!

Diipa: As everyone's skin is different and reacts to different things, I can't assure that sharing my routine may help everyone. However, what I recommend every routine should have is Vitamin C. Prior to my pregnancy,

I used to use retinol (I don't anymore as I am breastfeeding), so a good alternative would be Bakuchiol. I also use Niacinamide for that extra bit of hydration, as well as ferulic acid. Most importantly not to forget SPF !

Grazia: Some tips for a happy married life.

Diipa: I was fortunate enough to marry my best friend, someone who I trust and love. However, some tips I learnt along the way aren't far from the cliches you hear being thrown around. There is so much truth in the saying that you have to fully trust your partner. You are partners for life and that comes with the responsibility of being present through thick and thin, understanding that you are there for them as much as they are there for you, is key to success in your marriage. Communication, love, compassion, fun and good memories are all elements that come with being in a marriage, and all of these elements need constant work!

Grazia: What are the 3 most important tips for success?

Diipa: First and foremost is to be honest with yourself. Know your capabilities but simultaneously allow yourself to exceed them with growth every single day. Only you know what you truly desire, so stop at no barrier to achieve your aspirations.

Learn from your experience. Every day is a new day and a new chance to do better than you did yesterday. We all make mistakes along our journey, what makes you unique is how you turn your downfalls into a new pathway to success. Be committed enough to know that even if you make a mistake, you are still able to fix it and move on. Do what you love and have fun with what you are committing your time to! There is no point in achieving something you never really wanted in the first place, instead aim your goals at accomplishments that will actually bring you happiness, during and after the journey. ■

A GIFTED CLAIRVOYANT

Sheetal Dewan Kapur's strong intuitive predictions have guided many celebrities over the years and here is your chance to get to know more about her.

GRAZIA: Could you tell us a little about how you realized you were gifted? When was it, how old were you, where were you?

SHEETAL DEWAN: I did always feel different from everyone else growing up. As a child I could sense more, the dogs in the house were my close companions and still choose to be. My mother always narrates an incident of when I was two years old, I held onto my aunt's tummy and said "kaka hai" nobody knew that she was pregnant. I have also been told that I had an imaginary friend I would speak to in a language no one understood and making me sleep was apparently a nightmare for everyone in the house as all I wanted to do was talk the night away - not to my parents but rather to the walls and the ceiling. Growing up was eventful, animals were my confidants and humans felt like aliens. People were and till today are a jigsaw puzzle to me, one that I feel the need to solve for no one else but myself. Whether one calls it an intuition or a gift, it is a sense that has always sat behind the scene coming to light whenever I was terribly sad or ridiculously angry. I figured later that an intense emotion made me susceptible to picking up information from another that they held close to them and I did use it to especially torture my older cousins by picking up their boyfriends frequency without anyone knowing it and then of course blackmailing them with it.

GRAZIA: Was there an incident in particular that made you notice that you are gifted?

SHEETAL DEWAN: It got stronger post 2003 after my grandfather passed away. I remember I was sitting on the porch in peak winter at about 3am, when I felt him walk towards me, a part of me thought he was alive walking back from the hospital. He sat down next to me, like he always did, dressed in a white kurta pajama and we had a long conversation. When I look back at it, I honestly think I had lost my mind, but we spoke about studies, about me and I distinctly remember him saying "every disappointment in your life will push you to another appointment with success"; so enjoy your disappointment and be ready for success. It is so strange that I knew that his passing would make this gift potent and that is what it did. I started sensing the world around me far stronger than I used to. It's been quite a journey with my gift, to harness it, to value it and most importantly to respect it. Being near dogs has always grounded me, they have always protected me. They are the stability to my craziness. And being a dog parent of the three naughty babies that I have helps me cope with the chaos of this gift.

GRAZIA: What are the most common concerns that people come to you with? Do they want to know about their future? Do they want guidance in their career/marriage?

SHEETAL DEWAN: "Everyone wants to be valued", that is the common thread in all the sessions I have done till date. I do meet all kinds of people, with various kinds of queries about their future. Some seek me out of a need, yet some are simply curious to know their future. I look at a chart and tell them everything I sense and then they can ask me any number of questions they may have. There are also times when ancestors, who have passed, walk into a session wanting to give messages to their loved ones. I recently had a grandmother of a client walk in who affirmed that she was indeed the stylish of the lot and repeatedly asked her granddaughter to dress better. She was quite stern when it happened but once she left, we had a hearty laugh and my client is gorgeous, yet her ancestor affirmed that she should make more effort towards her appearance. Having said that, I respect all my clients equally because the problems that people come with are big issues in their heads and if I can be of any help to them to resolve or try to comfort them it makes me feel good.

GRAZIA: How do you see the next few months for all the different signs? July, August September - what should we look out for? What should we essentially focus on? Which signs will do financially, emotionally, and physically well?

SHEETAL DEWAN: This year heightens the frequency of consolidation, it asks us to introspect within. The essence of the year is that "the old will be released for the new to enter". Speaking one's truth would be considered sacrosanct, not only about the world we live in, but also about how we want to stand our ground in personal relationships.

a portal that comes to an end in October 2022. It will propel us to enter a new territory emotionally and professionally, we shall be compelled to adapt to a new ecosystem. Hierarchies will change, overcompensation in relationships will stop, excitement and fear of the unknown will come to the surface. There shall be immense spiritual growth and Saturn will show us the world as is. The rose-tinted glasses come off this year and reality shall come to the surface.

THERE ARE TWO IMPORTANT TRANSITS IN THE NEXT 3 MONTHS.

2nd of June to the 20th of July
Planetary positions for this period denote high emotional drama. Individuals born on the 1st, 10th, 11th, 19th, and 20th this period is ideally beneficial for you. It helps you to gather your strength professionally. There is a lot of planning and introspection awaiting you this month. Identify your strengths, learn to be gentle while giving orders to family members. Identify your professional obstacles and be

My intention is to bring awareness where it is needed and provide individuals with gaining clarity about their life and help them to move forward from current obstacles towards a life more abundant.

This year heightens the frequency of consolidation, it asks us to introspect within.

To understand this year, we must pay attention to the eclipse that occurred on the 10th of June. The best way for me to describe an eclipse is for you to envision that you are standing on the edge of a mountain top, which has a bridge. This bridge is made for you to move to the other mountain; it is rickety but you shall be compelled to cross this bridge from the 27th of May 2021 and land to the other side on the 10th of June. As you reach the other side, the bridge behind you will collapse and you will never be able to go back to that earlier mountain again in your life. The eclipse in June is the starting point of cautious in spending. For people born on the 11th and 19th please pay attention to your partners' needs. They may feel lost and alone. Communicate with love. For Individuals born on the 1st and 28th please pay extra attention to your fathers' health - small issues may lead into bigger ones. You shall require a lot of appreciation in your personal life; instead of asking it from others, learn to first look within and be kind to yourself. For individuals born on the 4th and 13th your mind shall move in different directions and you may feel frustrated and confused about the coming times.

Learn to balance your thoughts for it is not what you think will manifest but what you feel. Your relationships with younger siblings shall turn to the better, listen to what the environment is telling you. Do not react.

For people born on the 22nd, and the 31st of a month this is without a doubt a period to be patient. With yourself and those around you. Take baby steps in relationships and try not to go on a guilt trip as your emotions shall run high. For people born on the 8th and 17th please realign yourself personally and look at your passions, for they will make you successful. Great time for individuals born on the 26th they shall strategize and use this period to the best of their ability. Just do not procrastinate.

For people who are born on the 3rd, 5th, 12th and 15th, there will be an undercurrent of irritation and anxiety coming up in personal equations, you will contradict yourself. This is the time to not take unwarranted risks professionally. Especially if you're born on the 15th Keep your head down and bum up at work. Listen to what the world is telling you, now is not the time to open your cards to another situation.

For people who are born on the 12th, 21st, 23rd and the 30th be aware of how you are feeling, June and July create a certain frequency of loneliness for you, you may feel caged in and troubled by another's impressions of you. This is a time to take time off from controversial matters and focus on the most important matter – "That is you." Be playful, enjoy life and leave troubles for another time. For people who are born on the 6th and the 20th there shall be high seasons of dramatics running in your household and you will feel you are at a crossroads professionally. Pay attention to the needs of the family in June as July will come as a professional rollercoaster where you may not have time to breathe.

For people who are born on the 15th, 24th, 29th and 31st people around you may say one thing and do another. Yet do not react, this is the time to gather your strength emotionally and mentally and make that solid plan you have been procrastinating about. The details are important but execution of work even more so once you move from the 25th of June. So do not waste time with silly people, make your plans and then put them into action.

For people who are born on the 7th and the 31st emotions will be on the high and relationships in the home ground shall exhaust you. You cannot please everyone so take a breather. Pay close attention to your financial plans. For those who want to start a business this is the right time to network to meet people and execute plans.

For people who are born on the 9th,

18th and the 27th even though you like to always be in charge there is a hidden romantic side of you that comes about in this period, expectations will be high so explore this part of yourself and enjoy it. This is not a time to look at speeding work matters as there will be delays and obstructions. Let the 24th of July pass, it shall ease out professionally then.

24 July to 16th September

Individuals born on the first 10th, 11th, 19th, and 20th this period is ideally a time to make decisions in the home ground. It is the right time to create a routine and pay attention to your personal passions. Take that leap of faith and do not dissect your thoughts. Parents shall need some attention directed to them, especially people born on the 19th and 1st you pay attention to your partners, listen to them, they have a lot to say to you. People born on the 10th you must ease the relationship between you and your parents. There's a lot to process emotionally so speak your truth.

For people born on the 11th and 19th your frequency is opening up to attract a lot of financial prosperity, be focused and take the opportunities the month of August presents you with.

For Individuals born on the 1st and 28th please pay extra attention to your emotions, make time for yourself. Smile, you have the power to change your circumstances by using positive affirmations.

For individuals born on the 4th and 13th be assertive about how you feel in your heart, be clear and be kind. It's time to make important decisions for the future and you need to be focused on your end goal. September shall present you with travel and work opportunities that show up on your horizon. Learn to be clear about your professional decisions and balance your home ground. Your relationships with a female in your household may create dramatics, now is not the time to get involved in a cat fight. For people born on the 22nd, and the 31st this period urges you to be cautious of deceit and distribution, being sensitive will not help you right now. Be cautious dealing with government bodies and investigate all paperwork. No point signing anything without reading it. For people born on the 8th and 17th please continue to realign yourself personally and look at your finances and business professionals must pay attention to the politics circulating in your offices and put it to an end. Make strong financial plans and stick to them; this period will enable you to get all your ducks in a row and plan for a more constructive future financially. Individuals born on the 24th please finish what you start professionally, start that business, put your plans into action, strategies and use this period to the best of your ability. Don't get overwhelmed.

For people who are born on the 3rd, 5th, 12th and 15th, take care of your health, create that exercise regime you have been talking about. Do not let overeating become your coping mechanism. Make a personal plan and stick to it. For people born on the 30th breathe, you don't like interference, yet you let loved ones interfere, please learn to say 'no'. Communicate with clarity with lovers and hold your ground. Children born on the 15th it's time to fly and make your dreams into reality. Think high, think big and let the universe guide you.

For people who are born on the 12th, 21st, 23rd it's for you to create the life you would love to wake up to. Pay keen attention to your feelings. Make those plans concrete, friends will support you, parents want you happy. Your constant laziness hinders your growth. Take some time in this period and make the necessary changes and be happy. Especially those born on the 30th the secret to your future is hidden in your daily routine, be aware of how to treat yourself. The name calling must stop. September going into November is a great time for you to start that business or project you have been oscillating about. Romantic relations become stronger post November and singles' marriage blessings may ring your way.

For people who are born on the 6th you need to pay close attention to your mother, she may have a lot to say to you. Some good, some bad, some completely repetitive but strengthen your relationship there. For people born on the 20th you are a caretaker and if you want to fly then it's time you give up everything that weighs you down. Pay attention to your needs, learn to love yourself and flirt your heart away. For people who are born on the 15th and

Tarot is and will always be my first love, the energetic frequency of the cards help me decipher personalities, relationships and hidden feelings the fastest.

24th you're moving into a favourable period, pay attention to your needs, wants and desires. You are in control of your environment mentally and physically. It's time to look at the markets to make some money. Individuals born on the 29th and 31st create solidarity in your relationships. Stop flowing, take a stand, either you're in it or out. Please be conscientious of your finances, now is not the time to take chances. Here a big risk may not lead to a bigger return, instead it may lead you towards a loss. For people who are born on the 7th and the 31st your honesty is a rare commodity and it's time you use it well. Singles looking for a relationship please note that here comes your way is an opportunity to meet a fiery, mentally stimulating individual, so enjoy this person and don't look at him or her in a sense of finality. For people who are born on the 9th, 18th and the 27th your relationships with family shall face some disappointment and you may feel that there is no point in believing in anything or anyone. Here is where you need to make a mental note and start to let go of the expectation that you hold of others and start to see within yourself as to what your expectations are with self. Start reinvesting within yourself. It's a period of realizing your own power.

GRAZIA: Could you explain to us how your readings are conducted Do they need to be in person? Do you work through numerology and tarots as well as vibrations? Please explain your process.

SHEETAL DEWAN: As a clairvoyant or a medium, I choose to attune myself to the client's frequency through their date of birth, every number on this date builds a road map in front of me, which helps me decipher a person's lineage, personality, potential in work, relationships, and what sort of energies they attract, what patterns they repeat. It also enables me to understand the red flags and the roadblocks.

I use a couple of mediums to understand an individual's chart. Tarot is and will always be my first love, the energetic frequency of the cards help me decipher personalities, relationships and hidden feelings the fastest. It is a wonderful tool if you want to see how someone feels and how they attract the same patterns in different situations repeatedly.

Numerology is the science of numbers and it helps me understand the true potential one holds, the karmic connections we have. Astrology is a gift from my great grandfather. Each time I look at a date of birth it starts singing to me, I may not understand why I say it and now I don't question it, I look at it as a message that needs to be delivered like a postwoman. I am a student of esoteric sciences, however the gift reigns supreme.

I pick up the energies from an individual's date of birth and the sound of their voice makes it stronger, it's important for me to hear you. It doesn't matter if you are sitting in a room with me or in another city or country. ■

THE BEST OF FALL FASHION 2021/22

Some of the biggest brands in the world presented their Fall collections at the Paris Fashion Week — Haute Couture and Menswear over the past few weeks as we look towards a fresh new season in fashion the coming months.

Out of the many designer brands that showcased their collection at the Paris Haute Couture Week included usual names such as Chanel, Fendi, Givenchy, Dior, Iris Van Herpen and Schiaparelli while the season also marked the couture debut for famous high-street fashion brand Balenciaga.

While the majority of nations are still navigating through the post-pandemic realities, Paris Haute Couture Fashion Week continued the most practical runway trend that has been adopted since the advent of the pandemic — the virtual and lookbook presentations. However, given the relaxations in pandemic related restrictions there were some brands that paying ode to its brand identity with subtle and sophisticated cuts and a largely neutral colour palette although there were certain splashes of colours here and there. While Chanel opted for an in-person showing at an open air venue, Fendi decided to go for a digital pre-recorded showing as Kim Jones presented the second haute couture outing. The collection showcased Kim's flair for eye-catching effects like the allover petal work on an oversized dress, or the marbling of a draping gown. The most compelling of his designs were the silhouettes such as seen on the fascinating opted for a more vibrant in-person shows. The latest fashion shows not only saw the return of many renowned brands on the runway but also several of the world's top models made their comeback to the European fashion hub after travel restrictions have been recently lifted. This includes the likes of Kate Moss, Bella Hadid, Kendall Jenner, Christy Turlington, Helena Christensen, Adut Akech and many others who had skipped several shows last year. Chanel one the couture week constants presented a collection construction of a mosaic bolero jacket. Meanwhile, brands like Off-white and Jacquemus also displayed their fall collections with their signature style. Off-white showcased its collection Laboratory of Fun comprising a vibrant mix of colours and cuts while Jacquemus stuck to its trademark style and paid homage to the 90s and early 2000s fashion scene with tiny tops and bomber jackets all spread over a wide quirky range of colours. The fall fashion shows featured a mix of design ideologies but one thing's for sure that fashion is set to make a comeback to its glitz and glam after a fateful 2020.

JACQUEMUS

LONG AND STRONG

Nars' Natural Radiant Wear Foundation is a summer must have for every girl. This foundation not only promises to be super long lasting but is also made with a breathable formula that feels weightless on the skin. Comes in various different shades for every skin color and glides on easily to give off a smooth and radiant look for about 16 hours.

IMPASSIONED LIP

MAC Cosmetic's Amplified lipsticks come in a bunch of shades of which 'impassioned' is the perfect pick for a fun and bold summer makeup look. This bright fuchsia shade is made with an ultra-creamy and smooth, easy-to-glide on formula that feels comfortable on the lips and looks extremely luxurious.

ULTIMATE PROTECTION

Sunscreen is your skin's BFF and a must have regardless the season, however this weather calls for a lightweight sunscreen and our favourite is the Neutrogena Hydro Boost Water Gel Lotion SPF 50. This water based formula is easy on the skin and hydrating. Contains Broad Spectrum SPF 50 to protect skin from UVA/UVB rays and is oil free.
